Restaurant and Lounge

Seasons Restaurant – Savor bold “New American” cuisine in Boston’s most romantic restaurant, overlooking Faneuil Hall Marketplace and Boston’s breathtaking skyline. “Deserving of a prominent spot among the city’s fine-dining choices,” noted by Zagat, is a recipient of The Award of Excellence given by Wine Spectator Magazine and is consistently awarded rare reviews by local food critics. Seasons is available for private events, and offers a private dining room for the intimate dining experience.

The Atrium Lounge – Relax, listen to a classical pianist and sip your favorite cocktail. Spend time with friends as you enjoy the panoramic view of the splendid open-air markets, the shops of Faneuil Hall Marketplace and cobblestone walkways – a perfect blending of Boston’s historic past with the present.

Conference and Banquet Facilities

Josiah Quincy Suite – Overlooking our cobblestone courtyard, this charming suite is ideal for memorable events of up to 125 people. Adjacent to the Josiah Quincy Suite is an indoor balcony perfectly suited for larger parties, meeting breaks and elegant pre-event receptions.

Winslow Homer Suite – Winslow Homer, the artist known for rendering everyday scenes into ethereal splendor, and whose birth site is marked by a plaque at The Millennium Bostonian Hotel, is the namesake for our fully-dedicated executive boardroom. Featuring high-back leather chairs, crystal chandeliers and sconces, the boardroom will transform your meeting into a masterpiece.

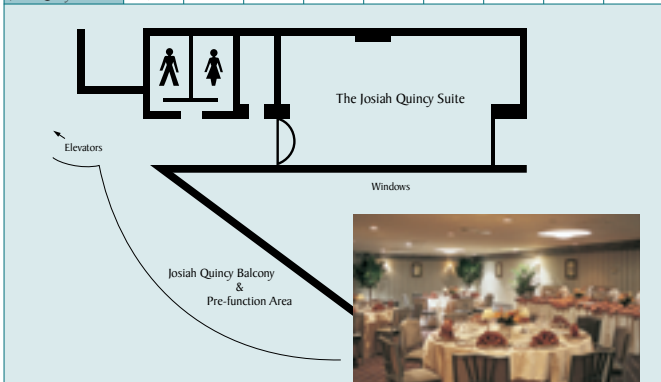

William Dawes Suite – The colonist who courageously rode with Paul Revere on the now famous journey warning of British advancement is the namesake for this well-appointed suite. Choose the William Dawes Suite for a history-making conference, corporate meeting or reception of up to 50 people.

Blackstone Suite – Named after Boston’s oldest block, just outside of our doors, the Blackstone Suite embodies Bostonian elegance. With two balconies overlooking Faneuil Hall, and an adjacent parlor, it provides a unique setting for meetings and social gatherings that will exceed all expectations.
